How to find a hosting institution?

- During trainings, for example EAIE
- During staff weeks/conferences
- Create a good atmosphere with your partner universities' colleagues, even if it is by e-mail/zoom...
- Use your personal connections: as you work in an international environment, you may know someone who knows someone...

How to convince your management?

- Job shadowing allows you to discuss the academic offer in detail, to see if a destination is really suitable for your students
- Once you have a good communication with your partner and you know who does what, you could start deeper cooperation: joint conferences/virtual exchanges, teaching mobilities...
- The whole operation could be paid by Erasmus+ budget
- You will practice 1 or 2 foreign languages- useful in your every day work
- Discovering other ways of working is always beneficial: you will come back with fresh ideas and it will give you energy to continue doing your best!

Practical organization

- 2, maximum 3 days
- You could mix job shadowing in 1 institution with a meeting in another institution
- Meet local students/your outgoing students
- Meet as many people as you can. Even if they don't have the same position as yours.
- Take photos and notes
- Ask questions but also share your experience
